Regional Director/Director IV
Department of Education - Region 02
Tuguegarao City, Cagayan

Sir:

Warm greetings in the spirit of collaboration, innovation, and shared purpose.

The Isabela State University will hold its 1st International Conference on Sustainable Development in Education, Technology, Agriculture, and Gender and Development on March 26-27, 2026, at Isabela State University-Main Campus, Echague, Isabela. With the theme "Innovating Across Systems: Gender-Responsive Education, Smart Technologies, and Sustainable Agri-Food Futures", it aims to serve as a global platform for researchers, educators, practitioners, policymakers, and students to share insights, disseminate findings, and establish partnerships that promote innovation and sustainability across disciplines. Furthermore, through plenary sessions from international collaborators, paper presentations, and collaborative engagements, the conference will foster an environment of scholarly exchange and capacity-building aligned with institutional thrusts on internationalization, research productivity, and inclusive growth.

In addition, selected papers from the conference will be considered for publication, without any article processing fees, in Isabela State University's internationally peer-reviewed journals, which are indexed in multiple reputable research databases, as well as in the College of Education's journal, likewise indexed in major scholarly databases. This publication opportunity aims to amplify the global visibility, scholarly impact, and knowledge dissemination of high-quality research outputs generated through the conference.

In view of the foregoing, we humbly request your support in endorsing the conference to the appropriate bureaus, offices, schools divisions, and attached agencies of the Department of Education (Region II), so that their teaching personnel, educational managers, researchers, and students may actively participate. The conference will provide a valuable platform for educational stakeholders to present evidence-based practices, innovations, and policy-relevant research, engage in interdisciplinary dialogue, and strengthen networks with local and international experts. Attached is the training design of the aforementioned conference for your perusal.

We look forward to your favorable consideration in endorsing this conference, allowing all stakeholders from the educational sector in the region to benefit from knowledge exchange and professional development opportunities aligned with sustainable development goals. Thank you very much for your kind consideration.

Respectfully yours,

TRAINING DESIGN

1st International Conference on Sustainable Development in Education, Technology, Agriculture, and Gender and Development
 March 26-27, 2026 | Climate Change R&D Support Facility

Rationale:

In pursuit of the global vision for sustainable development, research serves as a catalyst for innovation, evidence-based policymaking, gender equality, and digital transformation toward inclusive and resilient societies. The 1st International Conference on Sustainable Development in Education, Technology, Agriculture, and Gender and Development provides a premier platform for scholars, educators, practitioners, policymakers, industry leaders, and students to engage in meaningful dialogue, present impactful research, and build strategic partnerships that contribute to the attainment of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly SDG 5: Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls.

Aligned with the Magna Carta for Women (Republic Act 9710)—a landmark Philippine law that affirms women's rights as human rights and mandates the elimination of discrimination against women—the conference emphasizes the indispensable role of gender equality in sustainable and equitable development. RA 9710's provisions on equal opportunities in education and employment, gender balance in leadership, protection from violence and discrimination, and support for marginalized and vulnerable women directly complement the vision of SDG 5. The conference serves as a venue to advance research and policies that promote women's empowerment, safeguard women's rights, and institutionalize gender-responsive development frameworks.

Recognizing that sustainable development transcends disciplinary boundaries, the conference underscores the value of multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary collaboration across fields such as education, science, technology, engineering, agriculture, business, social sciences, and the arts. Anchored on gender mainstreaming, the conference highlights the integration of gender perspectives in education, agriculture, and technology. This approach promotes knowledge creation that is transformative, rights-based, inclusive, and responsive to the evolving needs of local and global communities.

Ultimately, the conference aspires to advance a future where sustainable development, gender equality, and technological progress move in harmony. By ensuring that women and girls—especially those from marginalized sectors—are empowered, protected, and given equitable opportunities to thrive, the conference contributes to building stronger institutions, resilient societies, and a more just and sustainable world.

Objectives:

At the end of the conference, the participants are expected to:

1. Present and disseminate research findings addressing issues related to sustainable development.
2. Promote interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary research collaborations among institutions and researchers worldwide.
3. Enhance research skills and competencies through keynote and plenary sessions.
4. Encourage publication of quality research outputs in peer-reviewed journals or conference proceedings.
5. Strengthen the research culture of participating institutions towards achieving the SDGs.

Target Participants:

- Faculty researchers, undergraduate and graduate students, Senior High School students, and professionals from various disciplines and Participation (Best Paper, Best Presenter)

4:50AM – 5:00PM	Closing Remarks

Expected Outputs and Impact:

1. Strengthened international research collaboration networks aligned with the SDGs.
2. Publication of selected conference papers in ISU's refereed journals.
3. Fortified partnership with international collaborators, Higher Education Institutions (HEIs), and government agencies.
4. Empowered researchers and students equipped with global competencies in multidisciplinary inquiry.

Abstract Guidelines:

1. Number of words: 250–300
2. The abstract should be written as a single paragraph and clearly summarize the essential components of the study.
3. Begin with a brief background of the study, clearly identifying the research gap that necessitates the investigation. This should establish the relevance and originality of the research.
4. Next, state the objectives of the study, indicating what the research aims to examine, determine, or develop in response to the identified gap.
5. Briefly describe the research methodology, including the research design, participants or respondents, locale of the study, research instruments, and data analysis techniques used.
6. Present the major findings, highlighting the most significant results that directly address the study objectives. Avoid excessive detail and numerical data.
7. Conclude with the key conclusions and recommendations, emphasizing the study's contributions to practice, policy, or future research.
8. Include 5 keywords for your research.
