2026 Women's Month Celebration Accomplishment Report
“We for Gender Equality and Inclusive Society”

I- Introduction:

The celebration of National Women's Month with the sub-theme: Lead like the Babaylans, Filipinas! serves as a meaningful recognition of the invaluable contributions of women in society and highlights the continuous pursuit of gender equality, women empowerment, and inclusive development. Anchored on the principles of respect, dignity, and equal opportunity, the observance aims to promote awareness of women's rights and strengthen the commitment of every individual and institution toward creating a gender-responsive community.

In line with this, the Women's Month Celebration was actively observed through various activities and initiatives that encouraged participation, collaboration, and appreciation of women's roles in education, leadership, family, and nation-building. The celebration became an avenue to advocate gender sensitivity, recognize the achievements of women, and inspire collective action in promoting equality and empowerment.

This accomplishment report presents the activities conducted, accomplishments achieved, and participation of stakeholders during the observance of Women's Month. It reflects the organization's dedication and support in upholding Gender and Development (GAD) programs and fostering an environment where women are valued, respected, and empowered.

III- Accomplishment and Participation

The Women's Month Celebration was successfully conducted with the active participation and cooperation of school personnel, learners, stakeholders, and division human resources. The activities carried out promoted awareness and appreciation of women's roles and contributions in the educational community and society.

Participants demonstrated enthusiasm and support in the various activities conducted, particularly in gender sensitivity advocacy, wellness activities, and recognition programs. Advocacy materials and information dissemination activities further strengthened awareness on women's rights, gender equality, and inclusive practices.

The celebration also encouraged stronger collaboration among personnel and stakeholders in promoting a safe, respectful, and gender-responsive environment within schools and offices.

IV- Impact of the Celebration

The Women's Month Celebration created a positive and meaningful impact among school personnel, learners, and division human resources by strengthening awareness and appreciation of gender equality, women empowerment, and inclusive practices in the workplace and school community. Through the conduct of various activities, participants were encouraged to reflect on the vital roles and contributions of women in education, leadership, family, and society.

Among school personnel, the celebration promoted camaraderie, respect, and support for gender-responsive programs and policies. It also served as an avenue to inspire teachers and employees to uphold professionalism, inclusivity, and sensitivity in dealing with colleagues, learners, and stakeholders. Learners likewise benefited from the celebration as they gained deeper understanding of women's rights, respect for diversity, and the importance of promoting equality and mutual respect within the school environment.

For the division human resources, the celebration enhanced solidarity and teamwork while reinforcing the importance of Gender and Development (GAD) initiatives in achieving a safe, inclusive, and empowering workplace. The activities fostered employee engagement, motivation, and appreciation of the significant contributions of women in public service and educational leadership.

Overall, the celebration strengthened the commitment of the schools and division office to continue advocating gender sensitivity, equal opportunities, and women empowerment as essential components of a progressive and people-centered educational community.

V- Challenges Encountered

Despite the successful implementation of the activities, some challenges were encountered such as time constraints, scheduling conflicts, and limited resources for the conduct of certain activities. However, through cooperation, proper coordination, and support from stakeholders, these challenges were addressed effectively.

V- Recommendations

To further strengthen future Women's Month Celebrations, the following are recommended:

1. Conduct more interactive and learner-centered activities on gender awareness and women empowerment;
2. Increase stakeholder participation and community involvement;
3. Strengthen advocacy campaigns through digital and social media platforms;
4. Allocate additional resources for wellness and empowerment activities; and
5. Sustain Gender and Development (GAD) initiatives throughout the year.

The celebration reminded us that women play a vital role in shaping the future. It also encouraged both boys and girls to respect, support, and value one another equally. As a teacher, I felt proud to see my learners actively participate and show respect for women. This activity not only enhanced their knowledge but also developed their sense of empathy and equality.

In celebration of National Women's Month 2026: Empowering Women in Education, this activity held on March 11, 2026 at Nagcuartelan Elementary School, highlights the vital role of women in shaping minds and building the future. Together, we recognize their strength, dedication, and invaluable contributions to the learning community.
